

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A pin for a cooling system includes an inner layer formed of a first metal. The inner layer is hollow, and is coupled to a header of the cooling system. An outer layer is formed of a second metal, and the outer layer is coupled to the inner layer via a coupling material.